Our diverse and lively community at Sheffield has always been a great source of pride, and a big part of why students fall in love with the University. The University of Sheffield was founded on the principle of community, and that principle still guides us. From the 'penny donations' given by Sheffield people that helped create the University, to the partnerships we have forged with local communities across the city, we always place this ethos at the heart of what we do. Today, donations to the University came from a wide range of sources: alumni, University staff, foundations, businesses and other friends of the University.

Studying at Sheffield opens doors. As well as the world-class research and facilities at your fingertips, a degree at Sheffield can give you the edge in an ever-changing global market. Alumni scholarships are a reward for bright and talented students who are in financial need. For many years, our scholarships have given students a platform to push forward in pursuit of their dreams and we're delighted to continue this support.

Your scholarship was generously funded by the Gupta Family Group Foundation (GFG Foundation) for students on postgraduate programmes of MSc Advanced Electrical Machines and Power Electronic Drives, MSc Electronic and Electrical Engineering, MEng Advanced Metallurgy, MSc Materials Science Engineering or MSc Advanced Mechanical Engineering.

The Foundation was launched by Sanjeev and Nicola Gupta in February 2017 as an initiative to develop the skills needed to help people start and continue working in specific industries, notably, engineering, metals and renewable energy.

The University of Sheffield is extremely grateful to the GFG Foundation for its support of Sheffield Engineering students.
